Why is Landsvirkjun the national power of Iceland?

Landsvirkjun was established on July 1, 1965. The effort was put by the Government of Iceland to optimize the country's natural energy resources as well as to encourage foreign investors within the power-intensive industries to invest in the country. Therefore, Landsvirkjun is the National Power of Iceland.

Will geothermal and hydro power make sense for energy transition in Iceland?

Just as geothermal and hydro power generation made sense for energy transition in Iceland, local conditions elsewhere will determine which renewable resources are the most efficient and how they will be best exploited. Because every country is unique, each transition will be different.

Is Iceland a good example of a national energy transition?

All essential conditions are in favor of Iceland to set a leading example regarding energy transition. Furthermore, the country has already extensive positive experience in such transformations. Switching from oil to geothermal heating is a perfect example of a highly successful national energy transition.

What are the uses of geothermal energy in Iceland?

It is widely used to melt snow off sidewalks, heat swimming pools, power fish farming, greenhouse cultivation and food processing, as well as for the production of cosmetics, such as merchandise from Iceland's famous geothermal spa, the Blue Lagoon. Iceland's transition from coal and oil to renewables

How much electricity does Iceland use?

Similarly, in 2015, Iceland's electricity consumption was 18,798 GWh whose 100 percent production was made by using renewable sources. 73 percent came from hydropower while 27 percent came from geothermal power. Nevertheless, Glaciers cover 11 percent of Iceland.

How has the Icelandic drilling mitigation fund accelerated the transition?

The Icelandic drilling mitigation fund accelerated the transition by decreasing municipalities' risks in undertaking geothermal projects. Long-term planning for renewable energy implementation, as with any industrial development, is important.
