Vatican City may be the smallest sovereign state in the world, but it is also one of the greenest. It has long been an exemplar for tackling climate change through its approach to renewable energy. Thanks to a unique photovoltaic plant installed on the roof of the Vatican Audience Hall, the Papal State has been producing 300 MWh of solar energy ...

Pope Francis has unveiled a plan to transition Vatican City to solar energy as its primary source of electricity in his latest motu proprio "Fratello Sole" or "Brother Sun." The Holy Father has directed the construction of an ...

Vatican Solar Path. Building solar plants is a part of the Vatican's historical plan to go green. In 1971 Pope Paul VI in 1971 said that 'humanity risked destroying nature by exploiting it'. However, the first materialistic steps were made only in 2008, when 2,400 solar panels were installed on the roofs of the Vatican's Paul V Hall.

The solution may lie in prefabricated solar systems where the mounting structures and solar panels are assembled in an off-site factory with a design that allows for a quick and easy installation ...

Name. The name Vatican City was first used in the Lateran Treaty, signed on 11 February 1929, which established the modern city-state named after Vatican Hill, the geographic location of the state within the city of Rome.
